UNITED STATES ARMY HEAD-QUARTERS, AUSTRALIA, March 27.—President Manuel Quezon of the Philippine commonwealth and the Philippine war cabinet have arrived in Australia to rejoin General Douglas MacArthur, it was announced officially today.

A statement said:
"President Quezon and the war cabinet of the commonwealth government of the Philippines are rejoining General MacArthur in headquarters in Australia with the approval of both the American and the Australian governments."

Col. LeGrande Diller, General MacArthur's spokesman, added that the Quezon party had arrived in Australia.

It was stated that since the beginning of the war Quezon had been exercising his governmental functions in close cooperation with MacArthur and had been located at the general's headquarters.

This arrangement will be continued, it was explained.

The President was accompanied by his family as well as by members of his war cabinet.

President Quezon's whereabouts since he left Manila prior to the Japanese occupation of the city Jan.
2 have been an official secret, though he has been mentioned from time to time in dispatches referring to his "temporary" captivity "somewhere in the Philippines."

Only last Saturday the Tokyo radio broadcast reports that Quezon had died at Cebu. Several conflicting stories were told by the Japanese and other Axis sources, one version saying Quezon had died after an illness and another declaring he had been "murdered" on orders from General MacArthur.

Kin Of Salem Man Battling Nazi Oppression; One Gives Life Before Firing Squad

William Hansteen, Native Norwegian, Learns of Death
Of Cousin; Another Cousin Now Norwegian War
Secretary In London

Nazi persecution in occupied Norway has left its sting in at least one Salem home.
William Hansteen of 431 W.
Fourth st., a native Norwegian, was horrified to learn one day recently that the Germans had executed a cousin, Viggo Harold Hansteen, who was chief legal advisor to the trade unions in Norway.

Through newspaper and radio dispatches, the Salem man learned that his lawyer cousin, a leader in Norwegian circles, was one of two men put to death before a Nazi firing squad during the "civilian emergency" proclaimed by the German commissar for Norway.

Germany, William Hansteen related, was seeking to crush a revolt by labor, designated as Communist led. His cousin felt easy prey for the Nazi reprisals.

Employed As Designer

The Salem resident, employed by the Salem Engineering Co. as a designer and checker, has since heard how German soldiers appeared at Viggo's office one morning and informed him that he was wanted at the Gestapo headquarters.

Forced to accompany the Nazi guard, the man was given a brief hearing before German officers and then ordered to stand before the firing squad. Before nightfall, the Germans had returned his clothes to his widow, with a curt "apology."

The cousins often played together when boys and it is hard for William to realize that Viggo now is dead. The son of a doctor who is superintendent of a 5,000-bed modern hospital in Oslo, Viggo had been secretary to the Norwegian labor organization for a number of years.

When the Salem man was attending the Norway Institute of Technology, he stayed at his cousin's home until he graduated. His own family lived at Trondheim, Norway, where the Salem man's father, a psychiatrist, was superintendent of an asylum.

Mother Lives Near Oslo

The Salem man's one regret is that his mother, now living near Oslo, didn't remain here when the parents visited their son and family four and a half years ago.

But, Norway was their home and back home they went after enjoying their first visit to the United States. Dr. Hansteen died a year ago at the age of 72, following a stroke.

The Hansteen family prominence in Norway continues, despite the Nazis. Another cousin of the politically amiable Salem engineer has become a major general and secretary of war to the Norwegian government in exile in London, helping the Allied campaign with the hope that some day the Germans may be driven out of their homeland.

He is Wilhelm Hansteen, described by his American relative as an able and ambitious officer who did everything he could before the war to awaken Norwegians to the possibility of a new Norway.

CHURCH HEAD

Last Sacraments Administered to Most Rev. Joseph Schrembs

(By Associated Press)

CLEVELAND, March 27.—Last sacraments have been administered to the Most Rev. Joseph Schrembs, 70, archbishop-bishop of the Cleveland Catholic diocese, the chancellery announced today. His condition was described as critical.

"The people of the diocese have been urgently requested to pray for him," the chancellery said. He is receiving treatment at St. John's hospital, where he lives.

Archbishop Schrembs has been afflicted with diabetes for several years. Only yesterday, however, he went about his work as usual.

Elevated in 1911

Elevated in 1911 to the auxiliary bishopric of Grand Rapids, Mich., Archbishop Schrembs that same year became bishop of the Toledo, O., diocese. He was transferred in 1921 to Cleveland, and Pope Pius VII, soon after his coronation, elevated the Ohio prelate to the rank of archbishop.

This honor, announced March 29, 1939, came in recognition of Archbishop Schrembs' "out standing merits" and in anticipation of the 50th anniversary of his ordination to priesthood. Born in Bavaria, Archbishop Schrembs had been ordained June 29, 1889 at Grand Rapids.

He was the first American prelate to be honored by Pope Pius XII, who also conferred upon him the papal ring.

In the Cleveland diocese he received recognition as a builder. In one year, 1926, more than $6,000,000 was spent upon new buildings and institutions, and 50 new parishes were established during the first eight years of his leadership.

Last interviewed on Feb. 21—the 31st anniversary of his consecration as a bishop—he was visibly depressed by world conditions, but said the church would emerge triumphant from the war.

Church Still Stands

"We have 1900 and more years behind us," he said then. "Nations, empires, kings—all have fallen. The church still stands, fulfilling the promise of Christ that the 'powers of hell shall not prevail against us.'"

"The only earthly power against the church today is Hitler and Hitler is ----"

"You know, I find it hard to properly describe that man Hitler.
Perhaps you'd better simply say that I believe Hitler and his associates are on their way out. Just let it go at that."

Archbishop Schrembs was 70 ill for an interview on his 76th birthday anniversary March 12.

Tax Deadline Near

Next Tuesday is the deadline for

Auditor Olen H. Dawson warned today.

He estimated that 800 accounts imposed.

CHINESE PRAISED
BY GEN. STILWELL

Reports Concentration of Japanese Troop In Thai Interior

(By Associated Press)

Chinese Headquarters in Burma,
March 25.—(Delayed)—Lieut. Gen.
Joseph W. Stilwell predicted today that Allied forces in the Asiatic war theatre soon will be strenghtened sharply by increased shipments of war materials from the United States under supervision of U. S. army service of supply units.

Already a medical organization and command staff have been set up, he said, and meanwhile "we'll creek along on one wheel" while the supplies now available are being brought up to the lines over tremendous distances.

Lauds Chinese Troops

The wiry general, appointed recently also to command of all U. S.
forces in Burma, China and India, praised again the fighting spirit discipline and skill of his Chinese troops, and added:

"We hope to bolster the Chinese considerably with American special arms services. What China lacks we are trying to supply."

Stilwell, who saw Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek last week, said the Chinese leader kept in close touch with operations on the Burma front, where thousands of his men are engaged.

The American said that so far little action had been reported along the frontier between the Burmese states and Thailand, but that about 70 miles in the Thai interior, around Chiangmai, the enemy was believed to have concentrated considerable numbers of troops. However, Stilwell said most apparently were Thai, for whose fighting ability he has no great regard.

"They Can Take It"

As for the Japanese air operations on the Yunnan front:
"The Chinese don't like one damn bit to be bombed without air support of their own. But they can take it."

"The enemy now is sitting in the center of a circle with the Allies on an arc across Burma. I imagine we are in for pretty heavy bombing until our own air reinforcements can counter those the Japs have brought up."

Firestone Tire & Rubber company plant at Akron. It was just a year ago that the company received

The state has arranged the meeting to clear up problems of local defense councils in the orga-

One hundred and thirty-eight auxiliary firemen are registered here. Police Chief Ralph Stoffer said 70 volunteer policemen had

WAR PROTECTION
SCOPE ENLARGED

Demolition, Repair Squads
Will Be Organized
In State

COLUMBUS, March 27.—Demolition and repair squads and other "protectionary forces" will be organized in Ohio soon, the state defense council announced today.

"Ohioans must organize for civilian protection and this includes air raid warning, demolition and repair squads and other protection-ary forces," said Courtney Burton, executive director.

Burton told the Institute of Civilian Mobilization, in session at Ohio State university, that plans would be sent to 800 local councils.

Americans have learned that "defense is not enough," Jonathan Daniels, assistant director of the Office of Civilian Defense, told institute delegates last night.

"The people know they are not sheep to be guarded," he asserted.
"They are men and women to work and fight and sacrifice and add their muscles to the total striking power of America. People of America and those in Ohio seem to be waiting to make such sacrifices."

In an interview, Daniels gave several definitions of civilian defense and explained "it can't be a set pattern—every community has different problems." Here are his definitions:

"Civilian defense is the effort to make the civilian useful in winning the war."

"Civilian defense is saving out of our leisure and laxness and luxury to add to the striking power of the nation."

"Civilian defense is an effort to get every community to organize itself to face its war problems and act to meet them."

ETHICAL MIXUP

If political spokesmen and labor leaders want to know more about public peevishness over labor's overtime bonus for more than 40 hours of war work a week, they'd better send their professional listeners out to pick up comment on the disclosures about the Jack & Heintz Co.

Here was an instance in which the circumstances of war production apparently made it possible for a manufacturer to do what labor traditionally has argued that employers should do—share a windfall. The company, by its own admission, was extremely liberal with its employees. It also was liberal with its own officials.

This evidently was done well within the limits of the law, at the price allowed by the government a manufacturer was able to make a large amount of money. But it is plain from public comment on disclosures about the company's practices that there is an ethical mixup. The public isn't sure about the way Jack & Heintz employees were treated, or about the way company officials treated themselves. The same policies would have been dandy in peacetime. But now, in wartime, the same public can think of only one thing: It has to pay for every extra penny of war production cost that might be saved. Inordinate gain on the part of either management or labor comes out of the people's purse.

PAIN IN THE WHAT?

Since Dec. 7, caused by worry and anxiety, stomach ulcers have been on the increase throughout the country, according to Dr. Andrew C. Ivy of Northwestern university. Besides the war, says the doctor, who is professor of physiology and pharmacology, life-time taxes have done their dirty work. The combination simply has been too much for a lot of sub-standard digestive systems.

While it has been admitted for a long time that these things are a source of pain, the location frequently is erroneous. For instance, it sometimes is given as the neck. Bad news is a pain in the stomach, not a pain that comes and goes, but a pain that stays and stays.

COULD BE

If this hasn't been pointed out before, some attention should be given to the fact that public squawking about paying through the nose for war production began to bother congressmen just before the deadline for income tax payments.

Back in the lush days when income taxes were paid by the rich while the middle class and the underprivileged third hollered for joy, cynics used to point out that things would be different if almost everybody had to pay a little income tax.

Specifically, the argument used to emphasize that there never would be any economy in Washington as long as a majority of voters were kidding themselves about bloated bondholders paying the freight. In other words, taxpayers in general had to be brought to their sense.

When that happened, they would quit yelling for more gravy and start demanding more economy. Woe to congressmen who voted to throw around the people's money. Their constituents would watch them like hawks—or like the big taxpayers always have watched tax spenders.

That was the theory of the thing. Make everybody feel a sense of participation in the financial operations of government. Could it be that the theorists were right for once and that sometime during the process of laying it on the line for the income tax collectors a million or so who never had squawked before decided to write to their congressmen about watching pennies? Could be.

SOMETHING ELSE TAKEN FOR GRANTED

If every community in the country could experience one incident of sabotage, the lesson would be worth the loss. Instead, hundreds of them are taking security for granted, making the same mistake that was made at Pearl Harbor, which they have been urged to remember.

A broadside from United States Flag association tells an imaginative story of saboteurs occupying vital war production plants and shooting down workmen in cold blood. The same thing happens all over the country simultaneously. The next day, war production stops. Key plants have been stopped. It is one of the things that could happen here.

"Will it actually happen tonight?" asks the association. "Washington can't stop it. The answer lies with you. You are betting your life that it won't. Get to your posts, Americans. . . Now. . . and see that it doesn't."

Every story that has been told about inadequate protection of important plants, every report of plants that seem to be doing a good job, every situation that has raised the question of protection at all has bearing on the matter. If the fifth column ever strikes, it won't be a haphazard thrust in the dark, easily parried, but a bold, well planned move that will be extremely hard to stop. Americans still are taking a lot of security for granted in this war.

THE STARS SAY:

For Saturday, March 28

WHILE THERE may be much activity and enterprise on this day it is likely that the personal functions and interests will be uppermost, with prosaic and business objectives relegated to the background, although these are under favorable rule for constructive work if energy and practical efforts be turned in this direction. Friendship or some social influence might be of benefit here.

Those whose birthday it is may expect a lively and eventful year, with much progress and fulfilled ambitions both in business and private life. The former is under good auguries for expansion and energetic exploits if application and industry be aggressively employed. The social or friendly aspect may be utilized for furthering objectives. The major attention may be centered, however, on domestic, social, affectional or other personal or intimate associations.

A child born on this day should be bold, keen, courageous, energetic and ambitious, with friendship, popularity, and good fellowship holding place in its plans.

SUBS SINK FARM PRICES

WASHINGTON, March 27.—The battle of the Atlantic is promising to stir up trouble for the agriculture department in the nation's dairy barns.

And the trouble may spread to the hog and cattle feed markets.

The lend-lease need has developed as the department thought it would. In fact, Great Britain and Russia could use larger quantities than it would be possible for this country to produce. However, a tightening of the oceanic shipping situation, resulting from Atlantic sinkings and diversion of boats to the Pacific, has curtailed food shipment overseas.

Consequently, purchases for lend-lease shipment have not been of sufficient volume to maintain prices of dairy products and raw milk at levels established when such buying got well under way last summer and fall.

With the big production season for milk just ahead, further price setbacks may be inevitable, dairy officials said, unless the shipping situation improves or the government buys in much greater volume and stores the surplus for possible future shipment.

Protests against recent declines in prices of milk paid by manufacturers of dairy products pour in on the department from dairymen, who complain that, because of advances in feed prices and labor costs, there is less to be made from dairying than a year ago.

Pork products could later find themselves in pretty much the same situation. A material increase in hog marketings and slaughter is expected during the next eight months. Hog production is being expanded in anticipation of a large overseas outlet. Should that market fail to reach the proportions anticipated by the department in setting its hog production goals, price declines could be expected.

DIET ONLY ONE FACTOR IN ARTHRITIS CASES

No Single Treatment Will Cure It, Says Clendening

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.
THE PERSON with chronic arthritis is liable to get it into his head that somewhere, some place, somebody has a single, certain cure for every case. The most important fact for his peace of mind and happiness is for him to know that no single method of treatment, but a combination of different things, with the added effect of time, is the way for him to regain his health.

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

This attitude about a single thing that will effect a cure may take the form of believing that a certain drug will do it. Of late years, however, with all the emphasis on the value of diet in treatment, the arthritic is inclined to believe that there is a certain kind of diet that he should eat, that certain foods will do him good and certain foods will do him harm. This, I believe, is not necessarily true, but I would like to discuss it.

Rest and Exercise
Let it be remembered that the principle of treatment for arthritis is a combination of rest, alternated by periods of manipulation or exercise.

The rest should be of three kinds: first, physical rest in bed; second, mental and emotional rest; and third, rest from pain. "Bed rest," says one authority, "at one stroke reaches, to some extent at least, the strain and imbalance of the nervous system, the faulty position of certain organs and the improper closure of certain beds of blood vessels."

Mental depression can be relieved by assurance that everyone who has ever had chronic arthritis eventually got more or less a measure of relief. Rest from pain should be the principle of the medical treatment of arthritis.

LENTEN REDUCING DIET
By Dr. Clendening

(For Saturday—575 calories)
Satisfies appetite, really reduces, is safe because balanced.

Breakfast
2 oranges sliced—no sugar (vitamin C—100 calories); 1 Holland rusk (75 calories); 1 cup coffee—no cream or sugar.

Lunch
1 pea timbale garnished with diced carrots (vitamins—75 calories); 1 slice toast—no butter (75 calories); 1 small baked apple—no cream or sugar.

Dinner
1 cup clear soup; average helping lean roast lamb (150 calories—protein); 2 tablespoonfuls spinach (minerals—50 calories); 2 tablespoonfuls orange or lemon ice (50 calories); 1 small cup coffee—no cream or sugar.

Overcoming Bad Nutrition

Now as to diet, some people with arthritis are overweight, but most of them are underweight. The object of most diets in arthritis is not a specific one, but simply to overcome the bad nutrition of the arthritic. The old idea that meat and proteins should not be used has long since been abandoned.

Many students of the disease believe that digestive complaints such as flatulence, constipation and nausea indicate that the nutrition is disturbed at the base and diets which tend to ameliorate these digestive conditions are prescribed.

On the basis of the nutrition of the arthritic a number of studies have been made concerning the vitamin balance of these individuals. A group of physicians in New England thought they detected a definite vitamin A deficiency. They reported that 65 per cent of chronic arthritis showed abnormal dark adaptation curves which might be interpreted as indicating some vitamin A deficiency.

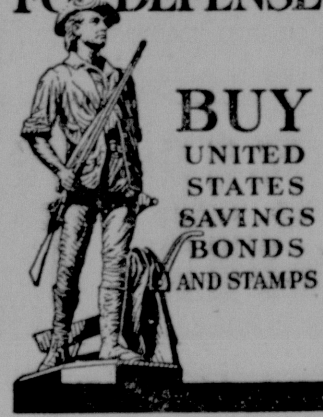

Vitamin B Deficiency
The popular deficiency in the treatment of arthritis today is vitamin B deficiency. Dr. R. O. Muth, of St. Louis, Missouri, found that vitamin B was somehow related by the arthritic and deficient in the diet. While it has not been proved that vitamin B is as much of a specific as is popularly believed, results with a vitamin B reinforced diet have been quite successful in obtaining some measure of relief for these patients.

To sum up the question of a diet for the arthritic, we should consider first, nutrition and second, digestive disturbances. If there is an overweight condition, a reducing diet is indicated, and if there is an underweight condition, a reinforced diet is indicated. But remember, diet is only a small part of the treatment of chronic arthritis.

LONG STORE HOURS

Editor, The News:

It is a matter of record in the past, when there was a big job to be done, such as contributing to the Red Cross, Community Chest, and cans of food for the flood victims of the Ohio Valley, that most Salem merchants and their employees have played a major part. Most of us are out to win this war. Why can't we have uniform opening and closing hours so that we (the ones who want to win this war) can take up Civilian Defense as requested by our Local Fire and Police Departments without pay.

These stores that stay open 10, 12 or 14 hours a day are not busy the entire day. The consumer thinks, "He is open so long I have all day to think of what I want."

One grocer alone couldn't do it because his competitor would not close the same hours as he. Naturally that would hurt his trade.

Our government has asked the American people repeatedly to save not only rubber, iron and gasoline, but to conserve on electric, gas, coal and other fuel. How much of these latter items are wasted in unnecessary business hours? Wakes up Americans.

Farm and Rural Activities

Collection of scrap metal in the "Scrap for Cash" campaign in Columbiana county is progressing nicely, according to County Agent Floyd Lower, chairman of the county scrap committee. Work is going on in most of the townships in the county this week.

Elkrun, Liverpool, St. Clair, Washington and West townships will start collection March 30. State, county and township highway trucks are assisting with the collection work. Several hundred tons of scrap are being collected from the farms of the county.

Twenty farmers from Columbiana county representing the various farm organizations and groups as well as a number of townships, attended the Soil conservation district hearing before the Ohio Soil Conservation committee in Columbus yesterday.

The hearing is being held in response to a petition filed from Columbiana county requesting the establishment of a district under the law passed by the last Ohio legislature.

W. J. Hays, chairman of the County Rural Planning committee, is leading the group. If the hearing is favorable, the state committee will set a date for a referendum in the county when land owners will vote on the establishment of a district in the county as requested.

Farm leaders say that the establishment of a district in the county will provide means by which farmers can more effectively control erosion without in any way increasing taxes or affecting those not interested.

A sign-up meeting for emergency crop loans has been arranged for Thursday night, April 2, from 7 to 9, in the extension office in the basement of the court house. G. L. Huffman, district supervisor, will accept applications. Loans will be granted only for seed, fertilizer, and spray material for crop production purposes to those who do not have other means of obtaining credit.

Farm machinery repairs are being ordered in amounts far in excess of other years, according to reports received from farm implement dealers. The anticipated difficulty in obtaining repairs later in the season, together with the government campaign to urge farmers to check their machinery and order repairs now is largely responsible, dealers say. Farmers who have not yet ordered needed repairs should do so immediately lest they could not obtain them when needed for operation of their machinery.

LISBON, March 27.—The Columbiana-Mahoning County Holstein breeders will hold their annual tour on Wednesday, April 1.

On this tour the Holstein breeders will be able to see how a few of their co-workers are meeting the dairy problems and will also be able to discuss with other dairymen their mutual problems.

The tour is scheduled to start at Firestone farm, east of Columbiana on Route 14, at 10 a. m. From there the tour will go to the R. F. Benzinger farm, better known as the Stark farm, on the Georgetown road out of Salem.

Following lunch the group will visit Homer Early's farm at Beloit and will conclude the tour with a visit to the C. B. Siddall farm. All Holstein breeders and their friends are invited to attend this tour. H. S. Dodge, editor of the Ohio Holstein News, will be in charge of the tour.

Divorce Rate Gains
COLUMBUS, March 27.—Ohio's divorce rate of one in every 400 is slightly higher than that for the nation, the census bureau reported. The 17,000 divorces granted in 1940 averaged 2.5 decrees for each 1,000 persons in the state, compared with 264,000 and an average of two for each 1,000 in the nation.

20-Ounce Baby Thrives In Home at Salineville

SALINEVILLE, March 27—While the stork hasn't gotten around to rationing, he came close to it when he visited Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Boyd of near Salineville the other day.

The old bird left a girl weighing one and a quarter pounds—20 ounces—and the attending physician said "She the littliest baby in the nearly 1,200 deliveries I've attended during my practice in the district."

The baby was fed with a medicine dropper until recently when the mother was able to nurse it.

How Home Defense Works

Operation of the home defense corps in emergency periods was interestingly portrayed in a sound film shown to Kiwanians at their noon luncheon meeting yesterday in the Memorial building. The film followed the activities of a typical air raid warden, showing the development of protective measures from the moment of the first alarm, flashed by the spotlights, to the arrival of planes and dropping of bombs. The film was provided by the Ohio Bell. Carl Willman was program chairman.

sibility of attack. For awhile, Wilhelm served as Norwegian military attaché in Finland.

Occasionally now the newspapers bring the Salem man accounts of his cousin's activities in London.

William has been a full-fledged Salem resident for seven years and he likes the community and its geographical location in relation to the larger cities. Both Mr. and Mrs. Hansteen have Norwegian friends living in Cleveland and Pittsburgh, and visit them frequently. Several are college chums.

Weds In America

Although William and Gunvor Hansteen lived not far from each other back in Norway, their romance did not blossom until they met after coming to America.

The couple met at a social function in Cleveland where Mrs. Hansteen, then Miss Gunvor Schram, held the position of governess at the David Ingalls estate. She taught the Ingalls children French, which she, herself, had studied in Paris.

Mrs. Ingalls asked Mrs. Hansteen to come to the United States 10 years ago when Mr. Ingalls was assistant secretary of war.

William Hansteen came to the United States in 1923 after working his way over on a large liner in order to obtain free passage that he might have sufficient money to support him until he found a job. He worked in Pittsburgh, Cleveland and traveled around a bit over the country before finally settling in Salem.

The couple now has two children, Ann, aged five, and Ralph, just seven months.

They're nappy here but they'd be happier if they would hear more often from their families in Norway.

His mother and two sisters are living in Norway, while another sister is in Sweden. Mrs. Hansteen's mother, brother and a sister reside in Norway.

On the other side of the continent, still another cousin of Mr. Hansteen resides at Manila, in the Philippines, another war sector.

The WPB Conservation Order Does Not Effect Men's Suits Made Prior to March 30, 1942

We'd like to clear up any confusion that may exist about the men's clothing in our spring display.

The Pearl Harbor incident did not occur until December 7, consequently the suits now in our store have not been affected in any way.

Our suits are all wool. Our double-breasted suits carry vests. Pleated trousers still are available. Coats are generously long. Some carry patch pockets. Cuffs are permissible but only up to March 30.

We repeat . . . the WPB Conservation Order, except that section referring to cuffs on trousers, applies only to clothing put into process of manufacture March 30, 1942, and after.

And so you'll find our stocks just as complete and varied as any we have ever presented . . . with prices only moderately higher than a year ago!

The Problems Of Rationing

Administrator Discusses Methods and Reasons, Calling for Co-operation of Public

BY JOHN T. BURNS

Since the tire rationing regulations have been issued many questions have arisen as to the eligibility of certain people of vehicles for new tires and tubes. Answers to these questions are given herewith.

Q. Is the service truck of a garage an eligible vehicle?

A. No.

Q. Is the wreck car of a garage an eligible vehicle?

A. Yes, it is eligible if it is used exclusively for this purpose, as it would come under the heading of safety and is needed to keep the highways open for traffic.

Q. If the rationing board grants a tire and tube, how many certificates will I get?

A. Separate certificates are issued for tires and tubes. Formerly one certificate was issued which covered the tires and tubes on the same vehicle, but this was changed.

Q. Are trucks and also trailers used by farmers to haul produce to market eligible?

A. Yes, but passenger cars used to haul produce are not, nor are passenger cars "rigged" up to haul produce eligible. The trucks and trailers must be used for wholesale purposes and not for deliveries to the ultimate consumer.

Q. After being granted a certificate, to what dealer should I take it?

A. This is optional with the holder of the certificate. The certificate is good for thirty days and he may purchase his allotment as shown on the certificate from any dealer.

Q. Why must I sign the certificate granted me in the presence of a member or the clerk of the issuing board at the time of its receipt?

A. When you receive the tires, you will be required to sign a portion of the certificate by the dealer making the sale and it is his duty to see that the two signatures agree. This is to prevent the transfer or sale of the certificates.

Q. Are seconds of new tires or tubes "new" tires or tubes?

A. Yes.

Q. Are bicycle tires within the rationing regulations?

A. No.

Q. If a buyer made full payment or a down payment on the purchase of tires before the Rationing Act went into effect, but did not receive the tires before that time, can the seller make delivery?

A. No. Deliveries can only be made on certificates of the board. If the buyer is not entitled to certificates, the dealer should make a refund to him.

Q. Have the local boards any discretion in extending the list of eligible classes?

A. No.

Q. Is a hearse an eligible vehicle?

A. No. In emergencies ambulances, which are on the eligible list, may be used as hearses.

Q. Is a truck used to deliver coal to both manufacturers and private consumers entitled to tires?

A. Yes.

Q. Does the exception relating to the deliveries to the ultimate consumer prohibit the delivery of coal to the ultimate consumer?

A. No.

Q. Are trucks used to repair telegraph and telephone lines eligible vehicles?

A. Yes.

Q. Are passenger cars used to repair telegraph lines eligible vehicles?

A. No.

Q. Are passenger cars used by traveling purchasers of scrap iron and other waste material eligible vehicles?

A. No.

Q. Are wholesale grocers' trucks used to make deliveries to retailers eligible vehicles?

A. Yes.

Q. Are trucks used for retail deliveries of heavy goods, i. e. furniture, etc., eligible vehicles?

A. No.

Q. Are tire rationing boards permitted to charge a fee for the issuance of tire certificates?

A. No.

Q. A dealer has sold a tire and guaranteed to replace it with a new tire if the original tire proved defective. Can the tire owner exchange a tire which proves defective for a new tire?

Two Salem Quintets Advance To Second Round Of Tourney

Scotts Trim Calcutta As Motors Down Newell; Gems Defeated By Canal Fulton

Two Salem teams advanced to the second round and one was eliminated as the eighth annual Little Cities cage tournament got under way at the Memorial building last night. The second round will get under way tonight when several top-notch outfits, including the Girard Spartans, will see action.

In the opener, the Salem Scotts' Smiths Service five of Calcutta and were extended to the utmost before they came through with a 36-32 win. Bob Ritchie and Don Freed paced the local attack as they tallied 14 and 12 points, respectively. The score was knotted 11 times during the course of the fray. In the final chapter the Calcutta boys tied it up at 32-32 but buckets by Ritchie and Oana sewed up the game.

Louisville Wins Easily

Louisville's always dangerous outfit won overwhelmingly from an outclassed Mineral Ridge quintet, 67-25, as Fox led the way with 19 points.

The Altohouse Motors, tripped Newell, W. Va. after a hard battle, 32-26, with Chuck Malloy dropping in nine points. The local aggregation led all the way but nearly lost the game when their attack failed to click in the third period.

The next fray took on all the aspects of a football game as several players got themselves considerably roughed up. The Canal Fulton Ketter Barbers, a team of ex-Massillon High players, trimmed the Gem Shoe Shines of Salem, 45-27, in a tough game. The Kettlers led by only 6-4 at the end of the first quarter but really got rolling after that. The outcome was never in doubt after the end of the first half when the Fultonites led, 24-14. Les Knapp and Ray McGaffick paced the attack against nine and eight points, respectively. Simon and Gilmore accounted for 11 apiece to feature for Massillon.

Kent Team Hot

In the final game of the evening, the Kent Getz Hardware-Kent State's tough frosh squad-gave the fans a beautiful display of pass-work and fast breaking attack as they walloped the Augusta Independents, 80-18. They ran up a 23-0 lead before the Augustans could find the hoop. With the clever Smith in the pivot and the Reash twins, Bob and Dick, and West and Fouse forming the rest of the lineup, the Kent boys were unstoppable as they rattled what defense the Augusta team had to score time after time.

The schedule for tonight's games follows:

6-Cuyahoga Falls Moose vs Girard Spartans.

6:45-Saxons vs Carrollton Independents.

7:30-Altohouse Motors vs North Canton Yale Clothes.

8:15-Greenford Ex-Highs vs Solon "Knights."

9-Scott's vs Wellsville 351' Club.

9:45-Louisville vs New Brighton Pa. Big Five.

10:30-Canal Fulton vs Salem K. of C.

Zimmermans lost two games to the Amateur Pros and their lead in the Commercial league last night as Crescent Machines shut out the Trades Class on a forfeit to take over the top spot. Finding the Grate lanes to their liking, the third place Smiths drubbed the Recreation three straight as Charles Huffer came through with a 224 his last game. Frank Vesey had fired a 212 earlier. Pace found the groove for a 223 for the Rees.

Walt Hiltbrand was red hot for the Scotts team as he opened his series with a scorching 247 and followed it up with games of 199 and 189 for a 636 total. His one-man attack was to no avail, however, as his team dropped two to Ohio Bell. The Jaycees took two from Keelies to move up a notch in the race.

In the other match on the card, Crescent, Jrs. scored a three game win over Shasteens as R. Kozjah rolled a 218.

In a postponed match between two Quaker City league teams, the Lape Hotel five copped two from Arcos last night at the Grate alleys.

The Machinists, pace setters in the Electric Furnace league, dropped two games to Electrical last night at the temple alleys but held first place as the Purchasers could win only two from the Draftsmen. Duncan had a 212 for the Draftsmen.

The Transformers lost a fine chance to gain ground as they lost a pair to the seventh place Office five and Shipping shutout Structural in other matches rolled last night. Night Shift B copped two from Night Shift A.

LOUIS FAVORED IN MEETING WITH BIG ABE SIMON TONIGHT

Champ Puts Heavyweight Crown On Block For 21st Time

By SID FEDER

NEW YORK, March 27.—The more or less exclusive Broadway betting shoppes are convinced that wagering has been placed on the priorities list for Joe Louis' 21st defense of his heavyweight championship against Abe Simon in Madison Square Garden tonight.

For, if all the bets on this army emergency relief raffle were placed end to end, there wouldn't be enough to buy a ticket on Man O'War to show in a three horse field. As the 49th street beachcombers put it, "You can't get action when Louis is a zillion to nothing," a zillion being the beachcombers' top figure.

Betting Very Light

So the agile wagering gentlemen, who have never been known to let grass grow under their size 12s—which is one reason there's none of it in their mid-town neighborhood—have even prepared a scale of prices on Simon's staying-around possibilities, once they turn Louis loose on him at 10 p. m. This is attractively done up in hand engraving with a black border to lure any boys the boys and girls may have kicking around.

The scale looks like the menu to your favorite eatery, except caviar is missing. It runs from the top item, which is even money that Abe is able enough to answer when the bell rings for the sixth round, all the way to 5 to 1 that Louis can't apply his usual dose of ether anywhere along the line before the 15 rounds run out. In between are various other offers, such as which hand Joe will do the business with or whether his shirt will be pink or purple or both when he arrives at the Garden. Nowhere, however, can you get a place or show price, or a daily double ticket.

Abe Rugged Last Time

The last time these two came out of the starting gate at each other—a year ago in Detroit—Louis found Abe a particularly rugged citizen to cut down. He finally did it in 13 rounds, but Simon was still on his feet when the referee stopped it.

Joe likes nothing better than to get rid of these "second-timers" in a hurry, and he's primed for this one. So this corner takes him to take care of the giant from across the East river inside of five rounds. One thing is certain, however. Ample Abe will definitely show up and try everything he has to take the Bomber's brightest bauble away. He thinks he can do it, and was more convinced than ever as he wound up his training weighing about 255, two pounds more than he expects to pack on his dainty frame tonight.

Private Louis wrapped up his chores with four rounds of target practice which did his sparmates no good, then stepped on the scales, and much to his surprise, weighed 207. He hadn't expected to weigh an ounce under 207½. Which just goes to show you even the best of them can be wrong. Anyway, he'll dry out a pound and probably carry 206 into the ring.

No matter which warrior wins, the army emergency relief will wind up on the big end. All told, the fund should pick up about $50,000 or more from a gate of over $125,000.

Comeback Of Oscar Melillo, Cleveland Indian Coach, Is Most Colorful of '42 Season

By GAYLE TALBOT.

CLEARWATER, Fla.—The most colorful and welcome comeback of the present baseball training season undoubtedly is that of Oscar Melillo, the red-faced, red-headed, accordion-playing coach of the Cleveland Indians.

If anyone had been making book a year ago on little Oscar's chances of ever again wearing a Cleveland uniform the price would have been at least 100-to-1, and even then the bookie would have felt that he was stealing money. It is doubtful that Melillo, himself, would have been tempted to take a bet of the sort.

Perhaps the story of Oscar's return from limbo could be taken to prove that honesty and complete devotion to one's calling will gain its just reward. It probably only proves, on the other hand, that Lou Boudreau, Cleveland's new "boy" manager, is a youngster gifted with an exceptional imagination.

You see, Melillo was the only one in Cleveland's official baseball family who stood shoulder-to-shoulder with Manager Oscar Vitt and fought the players through that nasty uprising of two seasons ago, when the Indians blew the American league pennant by a single game when they should have walked home in front.

Laziness Burned "Os"

Melillo, one of the game's great fielding second basemen only a few years ago, didn't necessarily take sides in the angry quarrel between Vitt and the men who tried to have him deposed in the heat of the campaign. He did, however, make it abundantly plain that he despised a ball player who didn't give the game everything he had while he was in uniform. Melillo always had been a scrapper in his playing days, and it burned him to a point of desperation to watch a club loaf to defeat simply because it did not like its manager personally.

So Coach Oscar assailed the so-called "rebels" day after day with invective that still is recalled with envy by a few who were privileged to hear him. They only marvel that he wasn't injured beyond repair for some of the athletes Melillo worked on were about twice his size and their tempers were on razor-edge.

When the sorry race ended, out went Vitt, and Melillo with him. Vitt caught on in the minors, but Melillo, sickened a bit of baseball, made no great effort, they say, to get another job. It is doubtful that he entertained the slightest hope of getting back in the game.

"Os" Offered Old Job Back

It must have come as quite a shock to Oscar when he was offered his old job back as first base coach. Needless to say, he accepted Lou's offer with alacrity, and he is one of the happiest looking individuals in Florida.

Just why Boudreau chose Oscar, the fiery cussor of the 1940 mutiny, is a question to ponder. Several of the men who fought Vitt the hardest and who endured Melillo's tongue lashings, still are on the team, and they must play their best ball if the Indians are to stay in the first division. As a matter of fact, it has never been a matter of record that Boudreau was on Vitt's

SPORT CHATTER

BY HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

NEW YORK, March 27.—Next big benefit show after tonight likely will be the navy relief card in Washington and part of the relief probably will be to relieve Freddie Cochrane of his welterweight title... Called in to arrange a card, Mike Jacobs' first suggestion was that the navy should give Cochrane the leave he claims is necessary to get in shape for a title fight against Ray Robinson... The M. P. who has been guarding Joe Louis' dressing room down at Port Dix is an old-time rascal, known professionally as "The Dark Angel" and "Dynamite Blackman." When Joe started training for tonight's fust, Eddie Blunt didn't have much trouble spearing him with a left. Now Eddie has trouble touching him with either hand.

Sportpourri

Stopping at Augusta on his way to Pinehurst to check up on arrangements for the Masters' golf tournament, Freddie Corcoran of the P. G. A. heard that the Japanese diplomatic corps had almost moved in there from White Sulphur Springs. "I guess they objected to the American plan," Freddie commented. After Boot and Spur gave Some Chance a licking at Agua Caliente a couple of weeks ago, owner E. C. A. Berger turned down an offer of $25,000 for the boss. He said he'd rather win the Derby.

Two Salem Quintets Advance To Second Round Of Tourney

Two Salem teams advanced to the second round and one was eliminated as the eighth annual Little Cities cage tournament got under way at the Memorial building last night. The second round will get under way tonight when several top-notch outfits, including the Girard Spartans, will see action.

In the opener, the Salem Scott's Smokeys defeated a tartar in the Smiths Service five of Calcutta and were extended to the utmost before they came through with a 36-32 win. Bob Ritchie and Don Freed paced the locals' attack as they tallied 14 and 12 points, respectively. The score was knotted 11 times during the course of the fray. In the final chapter the Calcutta boy tied it up at 32-32 but buckets by Ritchie and Oana sewed up the game.

Louisville Wins Easily

Louisville's always dangerous outfit won overwhelmingly from an outclassed Mineral Ridge quintet, 67-25, as Fox led the way with 19 points.

The Altohouse Motors, tripped Newell, W. Va., after a hard battle, 32-26, with Chuck Malloy dropping in nine points. The local aggregation led all the way but nearly lost the game when their attack failed to click in the third period.

The next fray took on all the aspects of a football game as several players got themselves considerably roughed up. The Canal Fulton Ketter Barbers, a team of ex-Massillon High players, trimmed the Gem Shoe Shines of Salem, 45-27, in a rough game. The Kettlers led by only 6-4 at the end of the first quarter but really got rolling after that. The outcome was never in doubt after the end of the first half when the Fultonites led, 24-14. Les Knapp and Ray McGaffick paced the attack against the smooth working visitors with nine and eight points, respectively. Simon and Gilmore accounted for 11 apiece to feature for Massillon.

Kent Team Hot

In the final game of the evening, the Kent Getz Hardware-Kent State's tough front squad gave the fans a beautiful display of pass-work and fast breaking attack as they walloped the Augusta Independents, 80-18. They ran up a 23-0 lead before the Augustans could find the hoop. With the clever

NEW YORK, March 27. — Next big benefit show after tonight likely will be the navy relief card in Washington—and part of the navy probably will be to relieve Freddie Cochrane of his welterweight title. Called in to arrange a card, Mike Jacobs' first suggestion was that the navy should give Cochrane the leave he claims is necessary to get in shape for a title fight against Ray Robinson. The M. P. who has been guarding Joe Louis' dressing room down at Fort Dix is an old-time rascal, known professionally as "The Dark Angel" and "Dynamite Blackman." When Joe started training for tonight's fust, Eddie Blunt didn't have much trouble sparring him with a left. Now Eddie has trouble touching him with either hand.

Today's Guest Star

Frank Graham, New York Sun: "Prize fighting, as Jimmy Johnston so frequently has remarked, is a very funny business. If he never had done so before, Jimmy proved it when he put Abe Simon into a ring to fight Joe Louis for the heavyweight championship of the world and he is going to prove it again when he steers Abe up the steps to fight Louis for the second time."

Stopping at August on his way to Pinchurst to check up on arrangements for the Masters' golf tournament, Freddie Corcoran of the P. G. A. heard that the Japanese diplomatic corps had almost moved in there from White Sulphur Springs. "I guess they objected to the American plan," Freddie commented. After Boot and Spur gave some chance a licking at Agua Caliente a couple of weeks ago, owner E. C. A. Berger turned down an offer of $25,000 for the boss. He said he'd rather win the Derby.

Hoop-la

Ohioans wonder how come Indiana claims to be such a great state for high school basketball. The Hoosiers have fewer than 800 scholastic teams while 1,154 started in the Ohio State tournament.

Food For Thought

Noting that two guys who pitched for the Red Sox against Detroit the other day were Hash and Brown, and that Trout started for the Tigers, James E. Doyle of the Cleveland Plain Dealer says that all were warned up well so they had no trouble finding the dish.

Expansion of plants for war production and other projects essential to the war effort will make 1942 the biggest year in the history of construction.

GETTING RESULTS!

Classified ads. are alert salesmen on duty every night. They get results quickly.

Zimmermans lost two games to the Altohouse Motors and their lead in the Commercial league last night as Crescent Machines shut out the Trades Class on a forfeit to take over the top spot. Finding the Grate lanes to their liking, the third place Smiths drubbed the Recreation three straight as Charles Huffner came through with a 224 his last game. Frank Vesey had fired a 212 earlier. Pace found the groove for a 223 for the Reds. Walt Hillbrand was red hot for the Scotts team as he opened his series with a scorching 247 and followed it up with games of 199 and 189 for a 636 total. His one-man attack was to no avail, however, as his team dropped two to Ohio Bell. The Jaycees took two from Keellys to move up a notch in the race.

In the other match on the card, Crescent, scored a three game win over Shasteens as R. Kozjan rolled a 218.

In a postponed match between two Quaker City league teams, the Lape Hotel five copped two from Arcos last night at the Grate alleys.

The Transformors lost a fine chance to gain ground as they lost a pair to the seventh place Office five and Shipping shutout. Sutherland in other matches rolled last night. Night Shift B copped two from Night Shift A.

LOUIS FAVORED IN MEETING WITH BIG ABE SIMON TONIGHT

Champ Puts Heavyweight Crown on Block For 21st Time

By SID FEDER

NEW YORK, March 27. — The more or less exclusive Broadway betting shoppes are convinced that wagering has been placed on the priorities list for Joe Louis' 21st defense of his heavyweight championship against Abe Simon in Madison Square Garden tonight.

For, if all the bets on this army emergency relief raffle were placed end to end, there wouldn't be enough to buy a ticket on Man O'War to show in a three horse field. As the 49th street beachcombers put it, "You can't get action when Louis is a zillion to nothing," a zillion being the beachcombers' top figure.

Betting Very Light

So the agile wagering gentlemen, who have never been known to let grass grow under their size 12's which is one reason there's none of it in their mid-town neighborhood—have even prepared a scale of prices on Simon's staying-around possibilities, once they turn Louis loose on him at 10 p. m. This is attractively done up in hand engraving with a black border to lure any boys the boys and girls may have kicking around.

The scale looks like the menu to your favorite bawney, except caviar is missing. It runs from the top item, which is even money that Abe is able enough to answer when the bell rings for the sixth round, all the way to 5 to 1 that Louis can't apply his usual dose of either anywhere along the line before the 15 rounds run out. In between are various other offers, such as which hand Joe will do the business with or whether his shirt will be pink or purple or both when he arrives at the Garden. Nowhere, however, can you get a place or show price, or a daily double ticket.

Abe Rugged Last Time

The last time these two came out of the starting gate at each other—a year ago in Detroit—Louis found Abe a particularly rugged citizen to cut down. He finally did it in 13 rounds, but Simon was still on his feet when the referee stopped it.

Joe likes nothing better than to get rid of these "second-timers" in a hurry, and he's primed for this one. So this corner tabs him to take care of the giant from across the East river inside of five rounds.

One thing is certain, however. Ample Abe will definitely show up and try everything he has to take the Bomber's brightest bauble away. He thinks he can do it, and was more convinced than ever as he wound up his training weighing about 255, two pounds more than he expects to pack on his dainty frame tonight.

Private Louis wrapped up his chores with four rounds of target practice which did his sparmates no good, then stepped on the scales, and much to his surprise, weighed 207. He hadn't expected to weigh an ounce under 207½. Which just goes to show you even the best of them can be wrong. Anyway, he'll dry out a pound and probably carry 206 into the ring.

No matter which warrior wins, the army emergency relief will wind up on the big end. All told, the fund should pick up about $50,000 or more from a gate of over $125,000.

Comeback Of Oscar Melillo, Cleveland Indian Coach, Is Most Colorful Of '42 Season

By GAYLE TALBOT.

CLEARWATER, Fla.—The most colorful and welcome comeback of the present baseball training season undoubtedly is that of Oscar Melillo, the red-faced, red-headed, accordion-playing coach of the Cleveland Indians.

If anyone had been making book a year ago on little Oscar's chances of ever again wearing a Cleveland uniform the price would have been at least 100-to-1, and even then the bookie would have felt that he was stealing money. It is doubtful that Melillo, himself, would have been tempted to take a bet of the sort.

Perhaps the story of Oscar's return from limbo could be taken to prove that honesty and complete devotion to one's calling will gain its just reward. It probably only proves, on the other hand, that Lou Boudreau, Cleveland's new "boy" manager, is a youngster gifted with an exceptional imagination.

You see, Melillo was the only one in Cleveland's official baseball family who stood shoulder-to-shoulder with Manager Oscar Vitt and fought the players through that nasty uprising of two seasons ago, when the Indians blew the American league pennant by a single game when they should have walked home in front.

Laziness Burned "Os"

Melillo, one of the game's great fielding second basemen only a few years ago, didn't necessarily take sides in the angry quarrel between Vitt and the men who tried to have him deposed in the heat of the campaign. He did, however, make it abundantly plain that he despised a ball player who didn't give the game everything he had while side. It is a strange situation. This much is certain: Boudreau gained an honest admiration for Melillo during the 1940 debacle. The players? Well, at least one of the mutineers feels this way: "Hold it against Oscar? Of course not. He's a great little guy and we're all for him. This is another year."

"HUTCH" OF THE R.A.F. by PETER MUIR

CHAPTER TWENTY-TWO

In a few sentences David told the story of the last twenty-four hours. The flight over Brest, his capture, and subsequent escape.

"That is well—so far," Anne commented when he had finished. "And now, I want you and Yves to help me. I have no money, but—"

"We do not want your money, Monsieur David. We would even help a stranger if he were fighting against these devils who have robbed us of our freedom and are now robbing us of our wealth. There is nothing I would not do to hurt them and their vile cause. I hate them." She fairly yelled the word "hate" and spat on the floor for emphasis. "What can we do? The old one has gone to the market with the boys. They will be back for breakfast. Now tell me."

"First give me a cup of coffee."

She shrugged her shoulders. "Monsieur David is an optimist. We have had no coffee in months. Hot milk, if you like. It is very warming if you pour in a glass of Calvados."

"Thank you. Here is what I want, Anne. First we must have four suits of the oldest fishing clothes you can find."

"C'est facile."

"Good! Then I want Yves to take us in his tunny ship to a point as near to the English coast as possible. We will tow a smaller boat and row the rest of the distance. A Breton tunny ship sailing in British waters might attract attention, and I do not want him separated from you."

The old woman thought this over carefully before answering. "C'est pas facile. But wait until my husband returns. He will know more about that than I. Meanwhile, I'll get you out of that Nazi uniform that I hate so much. The old one would probably break his stick over your head if he came in and found you like that." She hurried off and was soon back bearing a faded and patched pink blouse and trousers to match. Also a pair of wooden shoes. "You will have to go bareheaded," she said. "I find no caps."

Hutch changed while she went to find more clothes for his friends. In the fishing outfit he felt better and went over to look at his image in a broken piece of mirror nailed to the wall. What he saw amused him, and pleased him. This was how he had dressed when fishing with Yves. The dirty face, light growth of beard, and tousled hair gave him the appearance of being real. No German would ever take him for an officer in the R. A. F. Of that he was certain.

While he was gazing at himself, the father, followed by his strapping sixteen and seventeen-year-old sons, entered.

"Monsieur Hutchinson!" The simple fisherman seemed overcome with joy as he rushed forward to shake hands. "But what good wind brings you here? It is splendid. It is magnificent. Mamma," he shouted. "Bring me the bottle of Calvados. We must drink to the good health of Monsieur." He saw the bottle on the table, fetched two glasses, and filled them. "Monsieur Hutchinson, I hope you will join me in drinking to the day when France will once again be free. Vive la France!" They drained their glasses.

"Now tell me what brings you here, mon ami? But first let us sit down and fill our glasses. An empty glass is the sign of a miserly host. There!"

They sat on opposite sides of the table and Hutch once more told his story. He also said that he and his friends wanted to get to England, so as to continue fighting, as quickly as possible, and laid his plan before Yves.

"It is not so difficult," the old man said. "There is but one thing that we must avoid. You must not sail away from the port with us. The Germans ask for our papers every time, and examine them carefully. They are robbing us systematically, Monsieur Hutchinson. They are bandits."

Hutch pursued the subject of escape. He knew that his friends were waiting anxiously for his return, and risked recapture until he brought them a change of clothing. "How do you propose to get us aboard, and when do you intend to sail?"

"To answer the last question first," the old man began. "We intended to sail tomorrow night. However, everything is aboard except the ice, and that can be run into the hold in an hour, so I guess we had better get you off. We'll sail this afternoon, just me and the boys. For the other question, you know the little beach, Les Sables Blanc, about a kilometre past the point?"

"Yes."

"We'll troll back and forth out beyond that until dark. Then one of the boys will come for you in the small boat. He'll give three gull calls. Understand?"

"Excellent, Yves."

"Then, when we're not too far from England you'll have to cut away and row for it. With any wind we should not take more than five or six days. Rations may be slim, but there'll be Calvados." He laughed heartily and took a burning swallow.

"That means you'll lose your dingy."

"I guess so. Well, you can pay me after the war."

Just then Anne came into the room carrying a bundle carefully tied up in an old table cover.

"Here you are, Monsieur Hutchinson, three more outfits. Not very chic, but I hope they will serve the purpose."

He thanked her, said good-bye, and hurried off to tell his friends the news.

Hutch found the two Frenchmen and Rusty waiting in the woods where he had left them. They had not begun to worry about him, as his return was quicker than they had anticipated.

"Everything's wizard!" he yelled even before he reached them. The Frenchmen raised their eyebrows in interrogation, and Rusty explained that this was R. A. F. slang meaning that everything was O. K.

"An O. K. is American slang meaning that everything is wizard," Pierre said. "All very clear."

As he passed out the suits of fishermen's clothes Hutch went over the situation.

When he had finished Pierre said, "Sounds O. K." Henri proclaimed, "Wizard!"

They had laughed a great deal when they saw Hutch arrive in his patched, faded pink dungarees, but when they got into their own they laughed even more. Rusty's outfit wasn't so bad, but Henri bulged out of his and nearly split the seams. Pierre looked like the youngest son on whom the old family overalls had been hung without thought for line. The trousers hit him above the ankles, and the blouse drooped dismally from his shoulders.

Henri took one look at his friend and repeated, "Wizard!"

"No, just scarecrow," Rusty said. "Well, if they'll get us out of this I don't care what they look like," Pierre said. I suppose we'll freeze, but anything is better than that chateau bastille with the Fritzies jumping around and clicking their heels."

Everyone agreed to this. "Besides," Hutch said, "I don't see why you fellows can't keep your uniforms. We can roll them up and put them in this table cover."

"It would be dangerous if someone searched us," Pierre objected.

"If anyone searches it, it won't matter what's in the bundle," Hutch said. "The first thing they'll ask for is papers, and we haven't any."

The thing is — don't let's be searched. In fact, I think we had better keep out of sight until dark. The beach isn't far, and we can get there while the boy is rowing in from the ship. Fifteen minutes brisk walk from here at most. We'll not move before sunset."

Henri had tied up the bundle of uniforms tightly, so that it looked no larger than when Hutch had brought it. "What about food?" he asked. "For one I'm starving."

"I think we all are," Hutch said. "And unless manna rains down from heaven there's nothing to do about it except continue to starve until we are aboard. I'll tell you, it's no fun passing German soldiers, and the place is full of them, and wondering each minute whether or not you are going to be stopped for questioning. Don't forget that the news of our escape has surely been telephoned to Concarneau, and they will be on the lookout."

"For one I prefer an empty prison cell to a full belly," Rusty remarked.

"You both speak like oracles," Pierre said. "I share your views to the fullest extent. Take a hitch in your belt, Henri, and think more of your country and less of the inner man. We must continue the battle to overthrow the Hun. And now that I have that off my chest, let us while away the time with a serious game of bridge." From inside his undershirt he withdrew the pack of cards, now not only grimy but also soaked, and the pencil stub as well as a bedraggled sheet of paper on which he had already done some scoring.

And so until the sun dropped into the ocean the four fugitives, dressed in their faded pink Breton costumes, sat on the ground in the little woods, bidding spades, hearts, not trumps, little and big slams, and what-have-you.

Hutch was dummy and wandered out to the edge of the woods to have a look at the light. "Better be going," he said when he came back. "Just one more rubber. We're behind," Rusty suggested facetiously. To get to the beach it was necessary to cross the main highway. They approached it cautiously, and before they reached it the sound of marching boots came to their ears.
